wind farm

This aerial photograph shows a coastal region with a city in the background, an airport in the middle ground, and a large solar farm in the foreground. A red line outlines a specific area containing a primary substation and a solar farm. Three text boxes provide details about the energy infrastructure: a 3.5GW offshore wind farm, a confirmed 32 MVA primary substation, and a 20MVA solar farm. The airport features a runway, taxiway, and several hangars. The solar farm consists of numerous dark rectangular panels arranged in rows. The city is densely packed with residential buildings, and the coastline is visible in the upper left corner.
